

Date December 2004

Three Times Lucky for Stocksigns

Stocksigns, Redhill based sign manufacturer, has just scooped a highly acclaimed European Business award for the third year running. At the seventh annual European Catalogue & Mail Order Days (ECMOD) Awards Stocksigns won best overall catalogue business in their turnover category. The Oscar style awards took place at the Ibis Hotel, London and the prestigious trophies were presented by the writer and comedian Tony Hawks. The winning companies were selected by an independent judiciary panel comprising of catalogue experts from the UK, USA and Europe

"Winning the ECMOD Award is a prestigious accolade that goes some way to reflect the hard work of the whole team and acts as a benchmark from which to work from so we can continually develop the most user friendly and effective catalogue in the market place for our customers.” – Joanna Godden, Marketing Manager

The ECMOD awards are designed to reward excellence in the catalogue and home shopping arena and seek to recognise those businesses which are truly customer focused and committed to the goal of offering quality products backed by excellent service.

This years awards saw record numbers of entrants and included household names such as John Lewis, The Dolls House Emporium and Laura Ashley.

END

Marketing & PR:
Sales Manager

Joanna Hotton
Bernard Harrington

Email: jhotton@stocksigns.co.uk
Tel: 01737 764764
Fax: 01737 763763

Editor's Note

Stocksigns was founded in 1955 to design and manufacture Health & Safety signage. During the last 49 years, the company has grown to become the South's leading supplier of high quality, legislation compliant, graphic design conscious and customer-driven signage. The company employs over 65 people.

From its head office in Redhill, Surrey, Stocksigns has customers all over the UK and exports to 35 other countries. The company has been accredited with ISO 9001:2002 and has an Investor in People Award. Stocksigns' philosophy is put our customers at the heart of the business.

Stocksigns is a leader in the development of signage standards and legislation and is a member of Health & Safety Signs Association, Photoluminescent and Safety Products Association, Association of Road Safety Traffic Management and the British Safety Industry Federation.